This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

+ Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
+ Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
+ Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
+ Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

INTRODUCTION.

The statements made in the introduction to the first volume of Rolls of Connecticut Men in the French and Indian War apply for the most part to this volume. It is published under the provisions of the same Act of the General Assembly as was the preceding volume, and is the third important volume issued under the provisions of that act.

Since the former volume was issued, the rolls for 1757 to 1760 have also been mounted by the Emory process and bound, each year in a separate volume. The rolls for 1761 and 1762 are soon to be similarly treated. In thus placing these rolls in their permanent form, those designated as the Adams Papers have been supplemented by the few previously in the Connecticut State Library and mounted in the "War" series of archives, and the whole are now bound together in one series.

In addition to the sources previously mentioned, material has been taken from the series lettered "War," 10, 11, 12, among the bound volumes in the State Library.

As before, the greater part of the copy for this volume was prepared by the editor, and the proof of every roll has been read by him with the original manuscript. The index cards also, which were written by Miss Gay, were all compared by him with the proof sheets before they were printed.

The rolls of several companies which served in 1764 are given in an appendix. While these companies were not, strictly speaking, participants in the French and Indian War, their service was a result of that war. The war ended with the treaty of peace signed in 1763. The campaign of the following year was directed against the Indians who continued to create disturbance after the signing of the treaty of peace by their allies the French.

A second appendix contains some information relating to the years 1755–1757 which has come to light since the previous volume was issued.

For convenience of reference all names which appeared in the index to the preceding volume are, in the index to this volume, preceded by a star.

As stated in the previous volume these original rolls were found recently in the old Seymour house in Hartford. How they came to be and to remain there for so many years can now be explained.

Col. Thomas Seymour's ledger contains the following account:

		Colony of Connecticut. Dr.

This interesting account shows that depositions, copies of provision accounts and muster rolls, and possibly of billeting rolls, were drawn off for forwarding to the home government in England. These copies were of course made from the original rolls, which must at the time have been in Mr. Seymour's hands for that purpose. Copies of the rolls of other campaigns were almost certainly also sent to England, and it is reasonable to assume that these also were prepared by Mr. Seymour. A search recently made in England by one of the society's members, Charles M. Andrews, Ph.D., failed to bring to light any of these copied rolls; but that they were sent over after each year's campaign is evidenced by the fact that the home government reimbursed the colony for the expenses of every campaign from 1755 to 1762.

After the adjustment of all matters relating to these rolls and the receipt from England of payment for the expenditures represented by them, the originals were probably considered as of little interest and, as will be shown later, were allowed to remain in Mr. Seymour's hands.

A royal proclamation issued Oct. 7, 1763, concerning "the extensive and valuable acquisitions in America" secured by the treaty of Paris contains the following paragraphs:

And whereas we are desirous upon all occasions, to testify our royal sense and approbation of the conduct and bravery of the officers and soldiers of our armies, and to reward the same, we do hereby command and impower our governors of our said three new colonies, and other our governors of our several provinces on the continent of North America, to grant, without fee or reward, to such reduced officers as have served in North America, during the late war, and are actually residing there, and shall personally apply for the same, the following quantities of land, subject, at the expiration of ten years, to the same quit-rents as other lands are subject to in the province within which they are granted, as also subject to the same conditions of cultivation and improvement, viz.

To every person having the rank of a field officer, 5000 acres.
To every captain, 3000 acres.
To every subaltern or staff officer, 2000 acres.
To every non-commission officer, 200 acres.
To every private man, 50 acres.

It is stated that some ten years after the date of this proclamation a committee representing the New England troops who had served in the French War, composed of Gen. Phineas Lyman and Col. Israel Putnam, visited the region that is now the state of Illinois and there laid off a large tract of land on the Mississippi river, about one hundred miles north of the mouth of the Ohio river, for distribution as bounty land under the terms of the royal proclamation.

Whether or not the expedition of Gen. Lyman and Col. Putnam referred to above was a distinct expedition, or whether it is only a confused account of the expedition undertaken in 1773 for a similar purpose by Col. Israel Putnam, Capt. Roger Enos, Thaddeus Lyman, and Rufus Putnam, cannot now be decided from the meagre information available. This known expedition was made in the interest of the "Military Adventurers" or "Military Lands Company," composed of survivors of the French War, who, through the efforts in England of Gen. Lyman, believed themselves entitled to military bounty lands, and located a tract in what is now Mississippi, about one hundred miles above New Orleans. The English Government refused to allow this tract to be taken up as bounty lands, and the New Englanders who went out there were obliged to take up with unoccupied lands in other near-by localities.

On July 14, 1815, the following advertisement appeared in "The Trump of Fame," published at Warren, Ohio:

Take Notice — To all officers and soldiers who served in the regiment called the Virginia Blues, commanded by the late general, then colonel George Washington. To all those who served in the first battalion called Royal Americans, commanded by Col. Henry Boquet; to all those who served in the first regiment called the Pennsylvania Provincials, commanded by the late general, then colonel John Armstrong; the second regiment commanded by the late general, then colonel Hugh Mercer, who was killed at the battle of Princeton. To all those who served in any of the four New-England states commanded by gen. Lyman and also under colonel Putnam, To all those who served in the state of New-York or the Jersies, or in any of his Britannic majestys troops who served in North America, from the year 1754 to the year 1764, either by land or sea, for any one campaign, that they are entitled to a valuable bounty of crown land, by virtue of the king's proclamation, dated the 19th day of February, 1754, and also by virtue of the said king's proclamation dated the 19th day of February, 1765, the land was laid off and patented in the years 1772–73 and '74. The land appropriated for the New England troops was laid off by gen. Lyman and gen. Putnam, on the Mississippi, about 100 miles above the mouth of Ohio. The land is attainable at this day, by sufficient proof of service, either by commission, discharge, or living witnesses. To all officers and soldiers who served in the revolutionary war with Great Britain in any of the United States, who have not received their land or pay, or the depreciation of their pay that application may be made to the following gentlemen: Alexander Brown, associate Judge, Mercer, (Pa.) Jacob Herrington, Esq. same place, William M'Millan, Esq. Mercer County, Alexander M'Dowell, Esq., Franklin, Venango County, (Pa.) David Irwin, Esq. attorney at law, same place, James Herrington, Esq. Crawford County, William M'Arthur, Esq. Meadville (Pa.) John Grubb, Esq. near Erie, —— Brown, innkeeper

Erie, and also to the subscriber, living at the head of Big Spring, Cumberland County (Pa.) any time before the first day of October next. Due attendance will be paid to their business.

James Irwin.

June 30, 1815.

N. B. There has been a decision in the high court of chancery of Virginia in favor of the old military claims last summer.

It is expected that letters or any other papers addressed to Mr. Irwin or any of his agents will be post-paid.

J. I.

From whom Mr. Irwin received his appointment, or if, as is more likely, he was a self-appointed agent, does not appear. Within two months his notice, somewhat condensed, was copied from "The Trump of Fame" and printed in the Connecticut newspapers, where it doubtless aroused much interest. The notice in the "Connecticut Gazette" under date of "New London, Aug. 14," is signed by William P. Cleveland and requests "such as are disposed to avail themselves of the bounty" to "call on the subscriber for further information, between this and the 10th of Sept. next". The notice in the "American Mercury," published at Hartford, Aug. 23, 1815, ends thus:

N. B. As the original Pay-Rolls of the Connecticut troops, who served in the war referred to, are mostly in the possession of Col. Thomas Seymour, and his son Major Henry Seymour, perhaps they may be useful in ascertaining the names as well as the claims of individuals to the lands mentioned above. Letters have been written to obtain further information on this subject and answers expected.

Saml Ledlie.

Here is the proof that the original rolls, after copies had been made by Col. Seymour to send to England, were allowed to remain in his hands, where they had now continued for sixty years.

Further evidence of the active interest aroused in this matter is found in the following from the "Connecticut Gazette" under date of "Lyme, Sept. 11":

The Subscribers are about to make a journey into the Western country, for the purpose of securing and taking possession of a number of rights. Those who are entitled to a bounty in these lands and wish for information on the subject, or to avail themselves of our assistance are requested to call immediately. — We flatter ourselves, that by going on, and examining the situation and quality of the Lands, we will be able to afford the most effectual assistance.

Joseph Chadwick,
Horace Wait.

Col. Seymour, in spite of his seventy-eight years, at once evinced an active interest in this matter of prospective bounty lands. On July 24 he wrote to Mr. Irwin, desiring further information on the subject. Mr. Irwin's reply of a month later repeats in substance the terms of the royal proclamation and refers to "the order of the Governor of Virginia to have these lands laid off which was accordingly done and patents issued. As I have never yet got a Draught of them I can only say from information I have Rec^d" as to their location and value. Col. Seymour also wrote to others: to Jared Irwin, a Member of Congress from Penn., to Walker Wilmot of New Haven, whom Mr. Irwin had appointed as his agent, and to Hon. James Kilbourn of Ohio, to whom he says:

It being known, that the old pay rolls, containing the names of the Officers and Privates who served in the French War, from this State, and other documents were in my possession many applications are made to find & evince a title in the Claimants and should the lands be attainable they would soon be covered with Titles. Yet, it has been said, that Congress, not long since, by their Com^tee investigated this claim and found it inadmissable, perhaps such an exparte conclusion may be decisive, at the same time, the legal title if once vested, anticedent to the revolution, must prevail in a Court of Law. It would, however be gratifying to see the doings of Congress upon this subject, if a copy can be transmitted without too much trouble.

As will be shown later, this adverse action of Congress had been correctly reported.

Under date of Sept. 13, William Walker of Stratford writes Col. Seymour asking that some more pay rolls, "which contain the names of those in Fairfield County," be sent to him. The rolls particularly desired are those of Col. Smedley, Capt. John Burr, Capt. Stephen Tharp, Capt. Solomon Morehouse, and Capt. Nathaniel [Nathan ?] Hawley. There is no record of companies commanded by Burr, Tharp, or Morehouse; and the pay rolls of Capt. Nathan Hawley for 1756 and of Lieut.-Col. James Smedley for 1759 and 1760 cannot now be found. It is probable that these requests from Mr. Walker will account for the absence of many of the rolls now missing. And it is also probable that the rolls sent to Mr. Walker are the ones that were sold at auction in 1889 with the library of a collector living in the south part of the state. All effort to locate these rolls for the purpose of printing in this volume has been unsuccessful.

Col. Thomas Seymour continued to reside in the family homestead on Governor street until his death in 1829 at the age of ninety-four years. His son, Maj. Henry Seymour, who had for many years occupied the home with his father, lived there until his death in 1846. He was survived by a widow and three children. The youngest of these, William E., removed to New Orleans, and the others occupied the old homestead. The second child, Gov. Thomas H., died in 1868, and the oldest, Miss Mary E., removed a few years later to New Orleans to reside in the family of her brother, and rented the old home. At her death the Hartford home became the property of her nephew and niece who lived in New Orleans. They sold the house and most of its contents; and it was at this time that the rolls came to light.

It will be noted that many of these rolls bear upon the back, below the usual indorsement of the name of the captain, a number of names of members of the company which have no relation to the previous part of the indorsement. These unrelated names are, perhaps without exception, written in the same hand on all of the rolls; the ink is of a different color from that used in making out the rolls and the handwriting is of a more modern style. Capt. Eliphalet Whittlesey's roll, the fourth company, first regiment, 1758, carries several of these indorsed names, and against the same names on the face of this roll is written "alive 1815," in the same handwriting. This, without doubt, shows that these names indorsed on the various rolls are those of soldiers who were known to be alive in 1815 at the time of the bounty land excitement or perhaps of those who examined the rolls in an attempt to prove their right to share in such lands.

The following depositions show how proof of service was secured aside from the evidence of the rolls:

I John Byington of Redding in Fairfield County and State of Connecticut of lawful age depose and say that I am well acquainted with Henry Ludington of Fredericks, State of New York, that he enlisted under the Kings proclamation and served with the Connecticut troops in the war with France, three campaigns in the Company of Capt. Sworn and subscribed the 14th day of September 1815 before me John Phillips one of the Masters in the Court of Chancery in and for the Said State.

On Dec. 6, 1806, sundry officers who had served in the French War petitioned Congress to confirm them in their titles to lands in the state of Kentucky, formerly a part of Virginia, granted them by the king of Great Britain in consideration of their military services. The petition was referred to the Committee on Public Lands, who reported at length on Feb. 3, 1807. From this report it appears that in 1773 the governor and council of Virginia authorized the locating of bounty lands within the state. A surveyor was appointed to survey and lay off the lands. Having done this, he proceeded in 1775 to the proper office for the purpose of making a return of the survey and completing the title on behalf of the associated officers interested in the lands. As a condition of acceptance it was required of him that he should take the oath of allegiance to the king of Great Britain. This, because of his patriotic principles, he refused to do, and in consequence his surveys were not accepted and no patents were issued for the lands. The committee then proceeds "to examine the subject on the general principle" as follows:

The committee do not consider the kings proclamation as a grant, but only as a conditional promise to grant lands to these officers and soldiers on more favorable terms than those on which the crown lands were generally offered; such of these officers and soldiers as did not avail themselves of that promise and of those favorable terms, while the property proposed to be granted rested in the crown, cannot after the property has passed to another sovereignty, legally plead the promise of the former, for a grant from the latter. If a contrary principle should be established, the several states, and the United States, now vested with the property of lands formerly belonging to the king of Great Britain, would be under obligations to dispose of it on the same terms as formerly offered under the colonial government; at least to those who were inhabitants of the colonies.

Had those claimants applied for their lands within a reasonable time after the proclamation issued, it is evident no obstacle would have lain in the way of the completion of their titles. It appears that many who were entitled under the proclamation, never did apply for their lands; that others did after a lapse of ten years: this extraordinary neglect and delay, whilst it appears to have been the sole cause of their eventually failing to obtain their grants, must be wholly ascribable to themselves, and that circumstance must have a direct bearing on any equitable considerations that may be urged in their favor.

The general government has been considered, and the committee believe correctly, as a new sovereignty, erected by a confederacy of states, its powers and property were not derived from the king of Great Britain, and not being successor to him in the property he lost in America, cannot be liable to the payment of his debts, to perfect his gratuitous offers, or be under obligations to fulfil his promises. The faith of the general government is not pledged for satisfying demands which have originated previous to its own existance; it is only bound for the payment of debts created by its authority, and debts incurred in the common defense by individual states, which may have been assumed by the United States.

The proceeds of the public lands are solemnly pledged as a fund for the payment of the public debts, not only by act of congress, but by compacts entered into with the individual states, who have made cessions of territory. The several deeds of cession (though differing in form) do all specially provide for the claims and classes of claims which shall be satisfied in lands, and then explicitly stipulate that the residue of the lands "shall be considered as a common fund for the use and benefit of the United States of America," and "shall be faithfully and bona fide disposed of for that purpose, and for no other use or purpose whatsoever." Congress, by accepting the cessions on these terms, become specially bound as to the application of the proceeds, and are not at liberty to divert the fund from the uses to which it has been solemnly pledged.

From the view the committee have taken of the subject, they are of opinion that the claimants under the proclamation of 1763, have no claim on the United States.

From the above it is evident that the survivors of the French and Indian War had no valid claim in 1815 to any military bounty lands.

ELEVENTH COMPANY—CAPT. SPAULDING.

John Spaulding, Captain.
Samuel Mott, First Lieutenant.
John Smith, Jr., Second Lieutenant.
Penuel Levins, Ensign.

[Colonial Records.]

This company consisted of eighty nine men, probably in addition to the four commissioned officers. Capt. Spaulding died.

[State Library, War 10, 25.]

Lieut. John Avery was assigned to this company, but on account of sickness did not arrive in New York in time to sail with the regiment. He was appointed recruiting officer to raise men to fill up the regular regiments. He joined Col. Whiting's regiment in September.
